Vivendi contributes to Safer Internet Day with exclusive webradio cast

Vivendi is organizing a webradio cast on February 5 to mark Safer Internet Day, the European day of action to promote a more responsible and safer Internet for young people.

From 9 am to 12.30 pm, some thirty guests including politicians, professionals, scientists and experts, as well as secondary school students, will take to the #Vivoice microphone. The discussions will be hosted by French journalist Jean Zeid (@JeanZeid) and blogger Fadhila Brahimi (@FBrahimi), and will consider the issues of online reputation and sharing information.

#Vivoice may be followed live by connecting to www.vivendi.com/vivoice, and the various contributions made during the day will also be available subsequently in podcast form.

The event will also be relayed live on Vivendi's Twitter feed: @Vivendi_news, where Internet users will be invited to take an active part in discussions.

Since 2003, Vivendi has set specific social responsibility targets for its businesses. The Group is involved in a number of specific initiatives to raise awareness among young Internet users and their parents and to support young people in their use of the media.
