Vivendi Village, an operational unit of Vivendi, the international media and content group, brings together four service-oriented companies with significant growth potential in the production, distribution and commercial development of content.

The companies in Vivendi Village share a common entrepreneurial and innovative spirit – able to make rapid, yet disciplined decisions that balance risk against pragmatic execution opportunities.

These businesses symbolise the transformation of the digital economy. As such, they represent a testing-ground for Vivendi to explore new methods of content distribution and new ways to enhance the consumer experience.

Vivendi Village provides a collaborative forum for their companies to exchange ideas and explore opportunities. Through exposure to different parts of Vivendi, they also enjoy a privileged access to work on common projects and business co-operation.

Vivendi Village is fully committed to the Group's Living Together vision. In their own way, each company creates new relationships with their audience and a unique sharing experience to access content and talent.

Watchever specializes in online video. Its strong technical expertise is being used to develop innovative services spanning media and new technologies.

The company launched a subscription video-on-demand (SVOD) service in Germany in 2013 which was further enhanced in 2014 with thematic offers in the fields of music, children's programmes – with a dedicated App for iOS and Android called Kids by Watchever – and popular German comedies.

In addition to its core services, Watchever is also developing new digital platforms for other Vivendi business units.

The average active subscriber spends more than two hours every day on the Watchever platform – watching the equivalent of one movie or two to three episodes of a TV series. One-third use the offline mode to watch movies, series and concerts when they don't have access to the Internet.

L'Olympia, in central Paris, is one of the world's most famous live music venues.

L'Olympia regularly hosts performances by leading international artists, and the venue has also become an important showcase for up-and-coming talent.

It holds 300 shows every year, with more than 700,000 attendees, a figure growing each year. L'Olympia plays a central role in Vivendi Village, showcasing the constant evolution of live entertainment while providing an ideal testing ground for new concepts.

Did you know?

L'Olympia has hosted artists from all over the world – The Beatles, The Rolling Stones, David Bowie, Lady Gaga, Madonna, Justin Timberlake, Dalida, Eddy Mitchell, Johnny Hallyday, and Sylvie Vartan are all “children” of L'Olympia. Gilbert Beaud holds the record, however, with 26 performances!
